

A level maths information

The exam board that we will be using for A level maths is Edexcel.

Students are required to have a graphical calculator for the A level mathematics course. The calculator which is recommended by the exam board is the Casio FX-991EX Class Wiz. This will be used throughout the course and it is essential that every student has one to use in lessons. They are available to purchase from Amazon.co.uk.

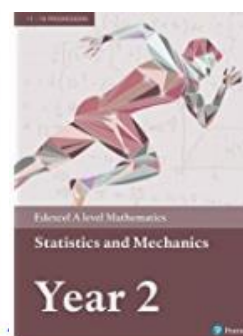

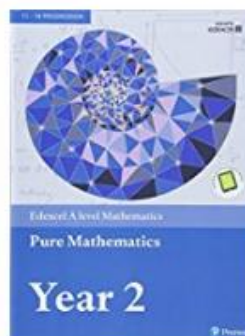

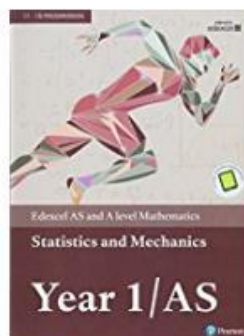

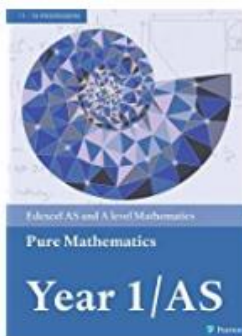

The textbooks that will be used throughout the course are published by Pearson. Students may wish to purchase these to help them with their revision throughout the course.

We would recommend that students purchase a revision guide to help them throughout the course. Due to exams being at the end of the 2 year course, it is important that students keep on top of their revision. We would recommend purchasing the CGP A level maths year 1 & 2 complete revision and practise book.
