End of an era for Concorde
Concorde has completed its last commercial passenger flight, ending three decades of supersonic travel.
Three flights landed at Heathrow airport within five minutes of each other, watched by thousands of onlookers on Friday afternoon.
Concorde had a grandstand finish at Heathrow
The last transatlantic flight carried 100 celebrities from New York and touched down at 1605 BST.
On disembarking, actress Joan Collins said there were "cheers and tears" among the passengers when the plane landed.
